Dear Friend,

EPRA received this voicemail from a client who had resolved her arrears before EPRA was able to complete her eligibility evaluation:

Hi. This call is for Marlene. I wanted to inform you that I didn't need the assistance. I was able to get additional work at my job and I did handle it. You sent me an email to bring in all the other things required and I'm sorry for the late call. Maybe you can help someone else instead of me. I really, really appreciate everything that you did for me, Marlene. I truly appreciate you and your program and I wanted to let you know so that maybe you can help someone else. Hopefully I won't need you again. Thank you again Marlene. God bless you all.

People often ask us how we measure success, and with each of our five programs the answer is different. And even within one program, the answer can be different. This is certainly a success for EPRA, especially since the client was able to find a way to sustain herself without needing our assistance. Yet, beyond that, she articulated how grateful she was, and that she hoped the assistance she didn't need could be used for someone else. Her compassion for others is a success in and of itself. Thanks to Marlene for modeling our mission!

In order to sustain our work, we need your support! The current way to do that is coming up with Giving Day 2024, as we LEAP into action. You hopefully received something in the mail, or saw our website and social media, or were treated to the video we sent yesterday where I gave you numerous ways to JUMP, FLY, SOAR, or put into action whatever other leap-year metaphor you choose. See the information below and be a part of helping us reach the goal of 366 donors on 2/29/24!

Blessings and have a lovely (long) weekend, Rabbi Joshua
